DOWNPOUR OF RAIN ENDS RACES AND PROGRAM AT F[illegible]

State Historical Society COLUMBIA

NO NIGHT PROGRA[illegible]

Three Races Were Finished B[illegible] Elements Interfered—All Free Acts Were Finished

The hovering clouds kept many away from the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. Withal, however, there was a goodly number there to watch the afternoon races and free attractions. Everything started off on schedule time, but at 4:20 o'clock a heavy downpour of rain forced everyone to seek shelter and the rest of the events of the afternoon were called off. There was no night program held.

Those who braved the elements yesterday saw one of the most unusual sights of the week. The free attractions were rushed through with in order to beat the rain. At one time there was a horse race on the ground, Lieut. Burke flying in his airplane low overhead and the Flying Wards giving their exhibition between the two.

The first racing event was a 2:25 pace with four entries. The horses finished: Mabel, Eli Best, 1, 1, 4; Direct Constantine, Wm. Jackson, 2, 4, 3; Peter Payne, George Sewette, 3, 2, 2; Colonel Ike, Al Lawler, 4, 3, 1. Time of heats, 2:19¼, 2:19, 2:19¼.

The second event on the speed program was the farmers' cart race, with four entries. They came under the wire in the following order. Fred F., 1, 1; Velo, Gabe Rush, 2, 2; Rambler, A. R. Robinson, 3, 3; Dandy, H. Harrison, 4, 4. Time of heats, 1:27, 1:25.

The last race before the downpour was a one-half mile running race. The entries finished in the following order: Joe Morris, Neff (Wilson), first; Hattie Wildo, McClain (White), second; Satswama Bell, Stites (Cummins), third; Barnie Boy, Wilson (Wilson), fourth. Time 50 seconds.

DAWSON TO SIT IN ST. JOSEPH INJUNCTION CASE

Injunction Proceedings Instituted by County Judges Against Circuit Judges of That County

Judge John M. Dawson went to St. Joseph this morning to sit in the case of the county judges of that county against the circuit judges relative to a measure placing the control of deputies in the hands of circuit judges instead of in the county court, where it was vested up to the time of the last session of the legislature. The suit is in the nature of an injunction proceeding. The county judges hold that because they have control of the finances of the county they should also control the number of deputies allowed for the various offices, this being part of the financial program.

RECEIVE COPY OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Sec'y Pickens of Com'l Club Receives Communication From National Council of Defense—May Become Law Here

As a part of a nation-wide campaign to standardize traffic regulations throughout the towns and cities of the United States, Secretary Geo. A. Pickens of the Commercial Club has received a copy of the general highway traffic regulations, put out by the highways transport committee of the Council of National Defense.

The regulations as set forth are designed for use in small towns as well as cities, and the purpose is to eliminate confusion among tourists, and safety to citizens through a standard code of traffic laws.

The regulations deal with pedestrians as well as vehicles, the proper method of turning corners, the rules of "right of way" on the road and other points which may not be clear.

A copy of the regulations will be turned over to Mayor Garrett and action may be taken to enact them as a city ordinance.

RAN A "NO CHANCE" GAME; FINED $26.65

Police Crusade Against Gaming Nets Geo. Faubler Yesterday—No Opportunity for Victims

The crusade which the local authorities have been waging against petty grafters and gamblers at the fair grounds netted another yesterday afternoon when George Faubler, proprietor of a "novelty pool game," fell into the meshes of the law on a charge of gaming. He was arraigned before Judge W. L. Johnson in the police court late yesterday afternoon and after entering a plea of guilty was fined $26.65, which he paid.

According to the police, Faubler's game of chance belied such a title. There was no chance, they say, for the victim, Faubler making a clean sweep every round.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR IS NEARING CLOSE

168TH BAND A FITTING CLIMAX TO WEEK OF ENTERTAINMENT

CHILDREN FREE TODAY

Expect Another Large Crowd This Afternoon and Tonight—Aviators Fly—Will Stage Races

With the concert by the famous 168th, band tonight as the climax to a week of unusual and entertaining feature attractions, Nodaway County's 1919 Fair comes to a close today.

Today was childrens day at the fair and every child of school age in the city was the guest of the fair management. Contrary to the plans, the children did not march in a body to the fair grounds. They secured their tickets at the office of County Superintendent of Schools Bert Cooper and upon presentation at the gate were admitted to the grounds. Prof. Cooper estimated that in the neighborhood of 400 children had applied for the tickets up until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The rain yesterday afternoon and last night made the day an excellent one for the fair goers, and although the crowd was not expected to reach the high mark of last Thursday it is expected to come well near that mark.

Thorughout this morning, Lieut. J. V. Hyde continued to make his passenger carrying flights, many availing themselves of the opportunity to get the bird man thrill. Lieut Burke, who finished his regular program yesterday, will remain in Maryville until Sunday morning This morning he gave an exhibition of fancy air stunts and acrobatic flying.

The track was being worked into condition early this afternoon, and a announcement was made that the regular program of races would be carried out.

FARMERS PRESENT PROGRAM TO REDUCE THE H. C. OF L.

Will Abandon Price Fixing on Food and Clothing, Food Administration, War Trade Board and Internal Revenue Tax

Washington, Aug. 16—Farmers today laid before congress a program to reduce the high cost of living. The program was outlined by the national grange and presented to the joint senate and house commitee of agriculture. It is designed to counteract the influence of the present agitation and thereby increase food production. It recommends the abandonment of price fixing on food and clothing at the end of the present season. Restrictions and regulations based on war powers of congress including the food administration be terminated immediately, termination of the powers of the war trade board and removal of internal revenue taxes on food.

WILSON TO HURRY ACTION ON TREATY

WILL ASK COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO SENATE AT ONCE

WILL EXPLAIN THE PACT

To Go Over the Clouded Parts of the Treaty Explaining Conditions Under Which It Was Drafted

Washington, Aug. 16.—When President Wilson confers with the senate foreign relations committee Tuesday he will ask them, it was learned today, to report the treaty of Versailles to the senate proper without delay. He will ask that the treaty be brought to a vote in order that not only the United States but the nations of the world can get back to work. It is President Wilson to explain the clouded portions of the treaty about as follows:

First, the treaty as a whole embodies the viewpoint of all delegates.

Second, provisions were arrived at only after there had been full and free discussion of all interests involved and throughout the interests of the United States were safeguarded.

Third, that the reasons why the treaty was framed by a council of three and five was that the deliberations of the entire conference was productive only of freedom of debating socially.

WILL CLOSE ALL FLYING FIELDS EXCEPT ON BORDER

To Concentrate Flyers and Machines at Latter Camps—Army Appropriations Insufficient

Washington, Aug. 16.—All air fields of the United States with the exception of those along the Mexican border, will be temporarily closed. Army flyers and machines will be concentrated at those kept open. Representative Curry of California let this be known following a conference with General Mitchell of the army air service. The reason, it is said, was the army appropriation bill failed to provide funds and men to keep all fields open during the present year. Those continued on the Mexican border must be maintained because of the uncertainty in the Mexican affairs, which might necessitate a complete blockade which could best be maintained by airplanes.

The Morehouse boys were driving the hogs to Hopkins to be shipped the next day, starting from home with them about 10 o'clock in the evening. Some of the horses on the farm had gotten out and they yelled at "Pud", when they saw him approaching, to see if a certain pasture gate was open. This attracted his attention, and he did not know the hogs were coming towards him until he was in their midst and the damage had been done. R. Dollison was exhibiting two short limbs from an apple tree Saturday that would take the prize for abundance of fruit. The limbs were not over fourteen feet long and there were 42 apples on them. To use an old expression, they were "just as thick as they could stick" on the limbs and Mr. Dollison said the whole tree was loaded with the fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sewell and little son made a record drive from Burlington Junction to Denver last week in the Sewell Cadillac car. They left here at 10:30 Tuesday morning and arrived in Denver Thursday afternoon, making the drive in just a little over two days' time.

While Clarence Ballinger was unloading a 22-calibre rifle Sunday the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet entered Mrs. Ballenger's foot near the heel and passed through it and into the floor. Mr. and Mrs. Ballenger were visiting at the home of Mrs. Ballenger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Webb, at the time, and they came to the office of Dr. C. E. Cossins, who gave the injury medical attention.

The directors of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co. have employed J. E. Moore of Quitman to take charge of the telephone exchange at this place. Mr. Moore is an experienced man and will doubtless have everything working smoothly here soon. He has been located at Quitman for the past year, and before going there he was in telephone work at Maryville. Mr. Moore will move here Monday. He will have charge of the line and all repair work and also of the board at night, being assisted in the operating by Mrs. Moore.

There are few people who realize just how important Burlington Junction has become as a stock center. They don't realize it, just because they haven't stopped to think about it. Nevertheless there is a large amount of shipping done from this place, as figures obtained at the railroad station show. From the year July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1919, there was a total of 243 cars of livestock shipped from here. Of this number, 67 cars were cattle, 38 were mixed cattle and hogs, 8 were sheep, 129 were hogs and the remaining car was loaded with mules. Practically every car of this stock went to St. Joseph, although there were a few small shipments to Omaha. The shipments were made by a large number of people, from the individual owner with one car load to the buyers who handle a great many cars annually.

Townsend, Jr., of Delaware, will respond for the distinguished visitors. An informal reception will be held at the Mormon Tabernacle Monday night for the visitors.

The State budget will be the theme of addresses by Governor Emerson C. Harrington of Maryland, and Governor Emmanuel L. Philipp of Wisconsin, at the Tuesday morning session. The addresses will be followed by a general discussion. Gov. S. R. McKelvie of Nebraska, and Governor D. W. Davis of Idaho, will speak on the growth and consolidation of administrative boards at the afternoon session, which will be followed by a general discussion. A round-table discussion of after the war problems will feature the Wednesday morning session, to be followed by a resume of 1919 legislation, embodying four phases—education, labor, agriculture, and general. A luncheon, tendered by Mayor Ferry and other Salt Lake City officials, will follow the morning session, and in the afternoon the delegates will go to Ogden, where, in the evening, they will be the guests of Mayor T. S. Browning and other Ogden city officials at an informal dinner.

Governor William C. Sproul, of Pennsylvania, will address the conference on "Expansion of the National Guard System as a Basis of National Defense," at the morning session. His address will be followed by a general discussion. In the afternoon a trip to Bingham and Utah copper mines will be made, and the party will leave Salt Lake City in the evening for a three days' tour of Yellowstone Park.

An Ordinary Washing

with an Electric Washer costs five or ten cents for electricity. The motor is geared low and requires very little power either for washer or wringer.

It runs steadily, and fifteen minutes of that kind of washing is equal to a whole lot of boiling and rubbing.

Water stays boiling hot in the electric washer becuse the work is done quickly and the top is tightly closed, and while clothes may be boiled before putting them in the washer, it is not necessary.

The Electric solves wash-day problems.

Stop and Think

For one moment why you stay in the East, and pay big interest or high rent when you can go west and soon own a farm of your own.

The West offers greater opportunities to any man than the East and especially to the poor man or man of reasonable means. I started in this land business last fall and have made a success of it by doing an honest business and by selling on reasonable commissions. My business has grown until I have had to have a partner, so Mr. Newt Morgan of Parnell, Mo., is going in with me. I have sold three thousand six hundred acres of land; have just closed a deal on one thousand and fifty acres at forty-five thousand dollars.

This has been the dryest year ever known to the oldest settlers and yet it is wonderful to see what crops we have raised. Most of the corn will make 20 to 30 bushels to the acre. We have had plenty of rain since the third of July and all late crops will be good. I am located at Carpenter, Wyo., in the southeastern corner of the State and have lots of land listed with me for sale now. I have farms of all sizes from one hundred acre farms to five thousand acre ranches and I know I can save any man money that wants to buy a farm or ranch. So don't fail to see me before buying. I have sold eleven thousand six hundred dollars worth of hogs since last October. I fattened them from the corn that I raised last year on one hundred and thirty-five acres. My last car load of sixty-two head brought four thousand and two dollars. I now have nine hundred and sixty acres of land. When I left Maryville, Mo., three years ago last October I was not worth five hundred dollars, today I am worth at least twelve thousand dollars. Now judge for yourself whether this is a good country to make money in or not. Then come and have a talk with me at the Nodaway County Fair and see samples of what we have raised this year, then make up your mind to come back with me and buy a farm or ranch and you will make the best move that you ever made in your life. For further information se me at the Fair August 11 to 16.

MISSOURI STATE LETTER.

Jefferson City, Aug. 16.—So confident are the state politicians about Jefferson City that Judge C. B. Faris of the supreme court will be named United States judge of the St. Louis district to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge Davis P. Dyer, that they are now speculating on the man to be appointed by Governor Gardner to succeed him on the state supreme bench.

For several days intimations have been coming by "grape vine" from Washington that Judge Faris will be appointed.

This has been strengthened by a letter received by one of the supreme court judges here from a source in Washington very close to the powers that Faris wil be named within the next ten days.

The writer of this letter declared that Judge Albert D. Nortoni has been eliminated from consideration from for the appointment through the fact that his confirmation is out of the question.

It is said in the letter that President Wilson has made up his mind that it would be useless to send the name of Nortoni to the senate and has decided to appoint Faris.

His name will be sent to the senate immediately after confirmation of A. Mitchell Palmer as attorney general, the letter intimates.

Members of the supreme court here are intensely interested in the appointment of a successor to Judge Faris on the supreme court bench.

This application will be in the hands of Governor Gardner and the appointee will serve until the election of a man to serve out the remaining two years of the term for which Faris was elected in November.

The judges agree that a strong lawyer must be named in order to have a show for election next year. The vacancy caused by Judge Faris' promotion to the federal bench will make two judges of the supreme court to elect next November. Should the Republicans elect a man against Judge Fred L. Williams for the full term and a man to the Faris vacancy it will give them a majority in division No. 2 court.

Speculation as to who will be appointed by Governor Gardner includes the names of Judge Noah W. Simpson, member of the public service commission, R. Perry Spencer, chief counsel for that body, Former Senator Wilfley and others.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—A permanent organization for Missourians who were officers in the war with Germany is being formed here. The organization, which is the outgrowth of the Missouri Officers' Association, was designed to assist the families of officers while they were inservice and probably will become a part of the National Association of Officers of the World War.

SKIDMORE GIRL WRITES OF AFTER WAR CONDITIONS

Miss Celia Hutt, Y. W. C. A. Canteen Worker in Paris, Describes Trip To Verdun Sector.

The following letter from Miss Celia Hutt of Skidmore, who has been engaged in canteen work with the Y. W. C. A. in Paris, describes the conditions along the trenches since the signing of the armistice. The letter is taken from the Skidmore News.

Paris, France, July 24th, 1919.

Dear Mamma:—

I came up today after lunch to write you a little, knowing the mail goes tomorrow.

We are very busy sending the Red Cross workers home as fast as they can be released. They sail from different parts, a few from Brest, Le Havre, Marseilles and Genoa. The offices of the headquarters here will move the first of the month, but continue to address me here and I will get it. I don't know when I will leave Paris, perhaps by September first.

Many of the girls who came with me have gone, but I feel that there is so much to see and do that I should stay as long as I can.

My room mate, Miss Morris, expects to sail on the Le France on the 2nd of August. The "Y" is sending home everyone they can spare—I shall miss her for she is so good to go on trips with. Last Saturday noon she and I and Geraldine Doheny went to Camp Romague—really if I could go into detail and tell you the whole story it would be much like a tale written to amuse. In the first place, Miss Morris is "Y" and Geraldine and I are R. C. The Verdun sector is a forbidden area and only in rare instances is any one permitted to enter that zone. I had a grave to look up at Romagna, which is one of the largest American cemeteries here. Geraldine was going as courier and to explain this to you must understand the wretched uncertainness of the French mail and telegraph systems. Much communication is done by courier. My room mate (Mary is her name) was told Friday that under no condition could she go, but we told her to go to the Head of the Leave Section. She was hopeless, but persevering, and left the hotel Saturday a. m. with her comb and toothbrush done up in a paper. The train was due to leave at 11:50 Saturday a. m. and I rushed to the station and in some manner explained to the guard that my friend had my ticket (which was not the case) and got on to the platform. There was no friend and no train there, but presently Geraldine came through with her third class military ticket and a cake of chocolate. I had brought some peaches and pastry and the peaches were getting soft and leaking through the paper and I was frantic with thinking the girls would surely miss the train. We waited until after twelve and in the meantime asked every French official we saw if there was not another train. They all assured us that we were alright and that the train was late in being made up. It finally backed in and in the same moment Mary appeared with her permission and a round trip ticket which they had provided her with. We were not crowded going up, in fact, had a compartment alone and the train was an express which reached Chalons at 3:45. We had to change here, but had only 40 minutes so we went up to see the cathedral and stopped, on the return, to get a piece of sausage, cured with garlic, no bread. My room mate had had no breakfast and none of the three of us had any lunch except what we had bought. We tried at every station to get bread but were unable to find any and the train was a very slow omnibus train, which stopped at every cross roads. There were four French officers in our carriage and they were quite entertaining. At one station, after they had all gone except one, a French refugee family of two men, a woman and three babies, got into the carriage—imagine ten in where there were seats for eight. This officer mentioned bread to Geraldine in a joke, and immediately this French woman unwrapped a loaf which she was carrying in a newspaper and offered it to Geraldine. You must picture this loaf as at least two feet long and round and narrow. She had to accept a piece and I must eat a bite and save this woman's feelings, but you can't conceive of anyone dirtier than the refugees, and we were almost sick at the mere thought of having eaten it. They all got off shortly, and G—— got off again to see if she could find food, and failing, got back on, when a poilu came up and asked if she had gotten any, and gave her a half loaf of "Pam Militaire", which is the military bread baked in round loaves the size of a frying pan, but is really baked in baskets.

We reached Verdun at 9:50 and it was drizzling rain. There is no Red Cross there, no railway transportation office, no "Y", no motor transport, in fact, nothing American, but we were directed by a French soldier to some American boys who were near the station and they told us of a hotel and took us to it. We were unable to get a room there, but they sold us some bread and cheese and we were directed to another place, where we were taken in. This one had had 22 rooms, but was so demolished that they had only been able to make eight habitable. In fact, only in the past month have any of the hotels in Verdun been opened. We were given a tiny room with a ¾ bed and a candle to go to bed by. We three slept in that bed under a French featherbed and never wakened until we were called at 6:10 for breakfast, consisting of a cup of chocolate and bread and butter. Our train left at 7 for Dun-sur-Meuse, which is a small village where a transportation camp is located. We got there about 8 a. m., and the boys gave us some coffee, bread, butter and jam. We waited about an hour and were taken in a Red Cross ambulance to Camp Romange, about half an hour's ride. The distance from Verdun to Dun is short, but we went so slowly and stopped so often that by the time we reached Dun I had all the daisies, poppies and corn flowers I could carry. You see, on an omnibus train you get out of your own carriage on either side.

We got to Romange and asked for Major Bickford, a man whom I mentioned, from Seattle, and he drove up in a Cadillac ready to take some of the girls to Verdun, so we all climbed in, too. It was perhaps ten o'clock. We drove all over the front, which had been fought over for four years, and which is sown with all kinds of ammunition, explosives, barbed wire, wrecks of airplanes, ambulances, tanks and all sorts of firearms, gas masks, etc., the trees, grove after grove, dead from gas and shell fire, every bank a small underground village of dugouts, every foot of the sod plowed up with shell fire, but the grass and flowers hiding it all as best it can—every big hill a stronghold and on all sides trenches and pontoon bridges across marshes—here and there a listening post or sniper's nest, and every village just a heap of stones. Miles of the road camouflaged, and I remember one very large bridge which had been blown up, the piers camouflaged and a new bridge built a few hundred yards away to deceive the enemy—the whole approach to the old one was used for concrete dugouts.

We drove through Forges, Bras and many other villages, which were completely destroyed. I've a picture of the highest wall standing in Forges which I will bring, but I am so afraid to entrust the pictures to letters. The road was rough and full of shell holes, so by the time we reached Verdun we were nearly famished for food and very tired, but we couldn't miss the opportunity of visiting the underground city of Verdun. It is built under a hill upon which is a citadel surrounded by a wall and a moat. I've no idea how many thousands could live in this great stronghold, but we saw their bakery and ovens where 125 loaves were baked at once, saw their hospital and reading rooms, all electric lighted and steam heated. Then we visited the Catholic school and church, which is pretty badly shot up. Our train left at 6:25, so we had an early dinner at a hotel called "Coq Hardi", meaning the brave cock. We reached Chalons at 9:45 and went to the French Red Cross. There were two lovely French women in charge, who took us into their private office and served us a dinner. There were two reclining chairs and a couch in this room, so we turned out the light and went to sleep. A French soldier called us at 2:10 for our train, and we left at 2:40, reaching Paris at 6 a. m.—went to our hotel, had a bath, slept until 8 and got to work at 9, as usual.

Don't think this trip a particularly strenuous nor so different in any sense from many I've taken, but I've simply had time and inclination to write at length upon this one. They are all full of such funny incidents, unique experiences and interesting sights that I could write volumes.

Love,

CELIA.

THE ROAD BOOM IN STATE IS GROWING

MISSOURI IS IN GREATEST ERA OF HIGHWAY BUILDING

824 MILES UNDER SURVEY

Approximately 40 Million Dollars in Bonds Voted or Proposed by Different Counties in the State

Jefferson City, Aug. 16.—The statewide movement to construct durable roads with state and federal aid under the new law, which has been in force less than four months, already is yielding results beyond the expectations of the sponsors of the measures. With approximately 40 million dollars in bonds voted or proposed the apex of the movement will not be reached until later in the year.

The state highway board, at its last meeting, aproved eleven road projects calling for an estimated expenditure of $938,550 on the fifty-eight miles of road. At a previous meeting it approved projects in six counties that will cost about one million dollars. Now that the federal bureau of public roads has assigned a resident engineer to Missouri to expedite the road building movement, these projects will be speedily passed upon by the federal government and the contracts for the building will be let shortly. The end of the year will find Missouri building more durable roads than ever before in her history.

Among the projects approved at the last meeting were:

Nine miles of gravel road in Dunklin county in two directions from Malden at an estimated cost of $62,000; one and two-thirds miles of bituminous macadem from St. Charles to Harvester in St. Charles county, $22,700; nine and one-fifth miles of bituminous macadam on the National Trails Road across the Malta Bend Special Road District in Saline county, $168,000; three and one-half miles of gravel on the Potosi-Caledonia road in Washington county, $12,000; seven and four-fifths miles of bituminous macadam from Boonville to the Lamine river in Cooper county, $130,000; five and three-tenths miles of bituminous macadam from Sedalia to Smithton on the Southern Highway, $50,700; thirteen miles of bituminous macadam from Excelsior Springs to Liberty, $324,600; five and one-half miles of bituminous macadam from Boonville eastward, $88,600; three miles of bituminous macadam from Lone Jack to the Johnson county line, $56,600.

The board appropriated the state's share of $1,200 a mile for the construction of three miles of bituminous maacdam road on the National Old Trail in Boone county from Columbia and the state's share on fifteen miles of concrete road from Charleston to Bird's Point in Mississippi county.

According to A. W. Graham, state highway engineer, there are fifty-seven projects in the state, representing 824 miles of road on which surveys are being made. He stated that there are aobut sixty projects which will be under survey within a short time. On nine projects, representing 102 miles, the surveys have been completed. Six federal aid projects under the new law are now under construction, and fifty-seven state aid projects, started under the old law, are still under way.

The estimated average cost per mile or road now under construction, according to Mr. Graham, is about $7,000 and represents hard surfaced construction of seevral types. If this average cost is maintained, the 824 miles now being surveyed will demand an expenditure of $5,700,000. Adding to that the cost of 102 miles already surveyed, a total of 6½ million dollars for road building is already within sight for the coming year.

Many counties have recently voted bonds or are preparing to vote within a short time, which will greatly swell this total before the end of the present year.

The total amount of bonds rejected recently is $2,735,000, in Green, Macon and Webster counties. Green county is resubmitting her two million dollar bond issue at an election September 15.

Since the new law went into effect bond issues have carried in the state to the total of $11,975,000 and elections to date have been called for issues amounting in the aggregate to $9,297,000 more.

Twenty-four counties and many special road districts are circulating petitions for bond issues totaling $18,058,000. The total of bond issues carried and bonds proposed is approximately 40 million dollars.

This road building movement is distributed about equally among the six districts in which the state has been divided by the state highway board. A division engineer has been placed in each district to supervise surveys, road construction, map out roads and otherwise act as the agent of the highway department in promoting road building in the state. A survey party of ten men is at work in each division surveying the six thousand miles of road the new law authorized within the next three years.

SELECT COMMITTEE FAILS TO REVEAL ANY NEW INFORMATION

STILL ON AIR PROBE

Investigation Only Brings to Light America's Efficiency and Import to World War

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Republican house's select committee of fifteen, inquiring into how America won the war, has now been at work more than a month and has failed to convince the American public that Germany did not surrender.

One phase of the conduct of the war—aviation—is now being inquired into for the fourteenth time, according to the statement of a witness appearing before one of the sub-committees, and thus far the inquiry has failed to bring to public attention anything that wasn't already a matter of general information.

However, the inquiry has served to remind the public of the following facts, among others:

That if it had not been for the supplies, material and assistance furnished by America, the Allies would have had little or no air service during the last several months of the war and Germany would have had complete mastery of the air.

That the development of the Liberty motor solved the airplane engine problem for all the associated countries at war. The Liberty was the only motor to attain quantity production and saved a very serious situation at a very critical period of the war.

That at the signing of the armistice there was a larger number of American air pilots in the military service than in the service of any of the Allies.

That although military aviation was a wholly new science in America, at the signing of the armistice the United States had produced nearly twelve thousand airplanes and more than thirty thousand motors. In addition, 5,071 planes, practically all of them fighting or pursuit and bombing planes, and 6,754 engines were purchased from the Allies, in return for which raw material was furnished the Allies, which alone made it possible for them to equip their own armies with airplanes.

That the air service wing of the army was built up from practically nothing at the beginning of the war until, at the signing of the armistice, its personnel numbered more than 100,000 officers and men.

That quantity production of both airplanes and engines had reached such development at the armistice that it would have been possible to equip the eighty fighting divisions General Pershing planned to have at the front by July, 1919, with the 358 air squadrons of twenty planes each regarded as needed to maintain absolute supremacy in the air.

That, in the opinion of high officers in the army, aviation as well as commanders of battle divisions, America's achievements in the aviation during the war, when the obstacles that had to be overcome are considered, weer nothing short of marvelous.

The aviation sub-committee, of which Representative Frear of Wisconsin, Republican, is chairman, has adjourned its Washington hearings and has gone to the Pacific northwest where hearings will be held to inquire into spruce production.

On the eve of the sub-committee's departure a statement attirbuted to Representative Frear was issued from the publicity office of the Republican National Committee attempting to justify the expedition to the northwest, which involved the travel of several persons several thousand miles, with consequent heavy cost to the taxpayers.

During the Washington sittings Representative Frear summoned Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the Democratic National Committee before the committee to take him to task because the Democratic publicity bureau had referred to his committee as a "smelling" committee and had characterized its trip to the northwest as a "junket." Mr. Cummings very frankly told the committee that he regarded the trip as unnecessary and a needless waste of time and money; in fact, that the whole program, based on the partisan plan of conducting investigations, was wrong, although as chairman of the Democratic National Committee he welcomed this and all other investigations the Republicans might make into the conduct of the war.

In the statement issued by the Republican National Committee, atempting to justify the journey to the Pacific coast, Mr. Frear was quoted as using such intemperate language as "dishonesty, "treason" and "graft," in referring to charges he said had been made to the committee against Democrats. Although copies of the purported interview with Mr. Frear were mailed out from the Washington publicity office of the Republican National Committee, Mr. Frear caused it to be withdrawn and issued a second statement, in far milder language, attempting chiefly to reply to Chairman Cummings' statement that the trip was an unnecessary expenditure of time and public money, and at a time when members of congress should be in Washington devoting their attention to the high cost of living and other necessary legislation.

Discussing the work of the aviation sub-committee prior to leaving for the northwest, Representative Lea of California, Democratic member, said that he felt that it would be inappropriate for him to express an opinion at this time as to the merit of charges presented to the committee. Nevertheless, in reply to a question about the old charge that a large part of the $664,000,000 set aside by congress in its first large appropriation for aviation had been wasted, Mr. Lea said that examination of undisputed facts show this charge to be a gross exaggeration.

"Out of these funds," said Mr. Lea, "it has been shown that the air service established something like thirty aviation fields, with the necessary construction work; that 30,630 airplanes engines and 11,760 airplanes were produced in the United States prior to the signing of the armistice, and that we purchased 5,071 planes and 6,754 engines from the Allies. Including the planes and engines procured from the Allies, the United States paid for 16,831 planes and 37,375 engines; also $63,345,941.77 additional was spent on overseas air service prior to June 30, 1919.

"A total of 15,572 Liberty motors was produced in the United States during the war, and during the same period we produced 16,848 engines of other makes.

"During the month of October, preceding the armistice, we produced 3,870 Liberty engines, while 5,297 engines of all types were produced during that month. This is the greatest record in engine producteion ever made by any country.

"These facts are simply high spots brought to the attention of the committee thus far during the investigation."

YANKEE ROBINSON SHOW MORE COMPLETTE THAN EVER BEFORE

The big Yankee Robinson threering Wild Animal Circus, due in Maryville Saturday, Aug. 30, will be more complete this season in range of standard features, aided by world-picked skillful artists, having a greater number of men and horses and additional animals of zoo and jungle than ever before. They also have enlarged transportation facilities, the largest of canvases, with an expanded seating capacity that will seat 10,000 people comfortably.

The 1919 season has a special interest, as the circus is reinforced by the presence of Young Hackenschmidt, the world's champion middleweight wrestler, who will meet all comers daily, forfeiting one hundred dollars to any man he cannot win a fall from in fifteen minutes. He is just one of the participants in the athletic portion of the Yankee Robinson program.

To give the public an idea as to the character of the entertainment presented by this vast amusement enterprise, the Yankee Robinson Circus and Eddie Rickenbacker, American Ace of Aces, were chosen out of a thousand attractions offered as the leading features of the Nebraska State Fair, to be held in Lincoln next September.

The novelty-filled, mile-long parade will take place at noon. Doors open at 2 and 8 p. m.

Three Races Were Finished b[illegible] Elements Interfered—All Free Acts Were Finished

The hovering clouds kept many away from the fair grounds yesterday afternoon. Withal, however, there was a goodly number there to watch the afternoon races and free attractions. Everything started off on schedule time, but at 4:20 o'clock a heavy downpour of rain forced everyone to seek shelter and the rest of the events of the afternoon were called off. There was no night program held.

Those who braved the elements yesterday saw one of the most unusual sights of the week. The free attractions were rushed through with in order to beat the rain. At one time there was a horse race on the ground. Lieut. Burke flying in his airplane low overhead and the Flying Wards giving their exhibition between the two.

DAWSON TO SIT IN ST. JOSEPH INJUNCTION CASE

Injunction Proceedings Instituted by County Judges Against Circuit Judges of That County

Judge John M. Dawson went to St. Joseph this morning to sit in the case of the county judges of that county against the circuit judges relative to a measure placing the control of deputies in the hands of circuit judges instead of in the county court, where it was vested up to the time of the last session of the legislature. The suit is in the nature of an injunction proceeding. The county judges hold that because they have control of the finances of the county they should also control the number of deputies allowed for the various offices, this being part of the financial program.

RECEIVE COPY OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Sec'y Pickens of Com'l Club Receives Communication From National Council of Defense—May Become Law Here

As a part of a nation-wide campaign to standardize traffic regulations throughout the towns and cities of the United States, Secretary Geo. A. Pickens of the Commercial Club has received a copy of the general highway traffic regulations, put out by the highways transport committee of the Council of National Defense.

The regulations as set forth are designed for use in small towns as well as cities, and the purpose is to eliminate confusion among tourists, and safety to citizens through a standard code of traffic laws.

The regulations deal with pedestrians as well as vehicles, the proper method of turning corners, the rules of "right of way" on the road and other points which may not be clear.

A copy of the regulations will be turned over to Mayor Garrett and action may be taken to enact them as a city ordinance.

RAN A "NO CHANCE" GAME; FINED $26.65

Police Crusade Against Gaming Nets Geo. Faubler Yesterday—No Opportunity for Victims

The crusade which the local authorities have been waging against petty grafters and gamblers at the fair grounds netted another yesterday afternoon when George Faubler, proprietor of a "novelty pool game," fell into the meshes of the law on a charge of gaming. He was arraigned before Judge W. L. Johnson in the police court late yesterday afternoon and after entering a plea of guilty was fined $26.65, which he paid.

According to the police, Faubler's game of chance belied such a title. There was no chance, they say, for the victim, Faubler making a clean sweep every round.

BOGUE HOME ROBBERS BOUND OVER TO CIRCUIT COURT

TRIO WILL PLEAD GUILTY

Those Charged With Crime Gave the Names of H. H. Balch, Harry Hicks and Chris Davis

H. H. Balch, Youngstown, O., Harry Hicks, Sycamore, Ill., and Chris Davis, Boone, Iowa, today waived preliminary hearing before Judge W. L. Johnson in justice of the peace court. The charge against them was burglary and larceny of the home of William Bogue, living on a farm between Conception and Ravenwood. The crime was committed last Wednesday when the Bogue family were away from home.

Before waiving preliminary hearing the three individuals charged with the crime indicated their desire to plead guilty. They were bound over to trial at the next term of circuit court.

Hicks, Balch and Davis were arrested Thursday in St. Joseph by the authorities there by request of Sheriff John Dowden.

After their arrest in St. Joseph by the police the three made a statement concerning the robbery to Buddy and Chief of Detectives Johnson. In the statement they admitted breaking into the Bogue home, gaining entrance through a side window. Davis stood outside and watched while Hicks and Balch robbed the house. In their statement they said that they stole the following articles: A shot gun, a .22 calibre Winchester rifle, a pair of shoes, a suit of clothes, seven handkerchiefs, three .22 calibre cartridges and a razor. The shotgun, rifle and shoes were sold in St. Joseph.

AWARD PRIZES IN FLORAL HALL SHOW

EXHIBITS ALL FIRST CLASS IN QUALITY

MANY IN FANCY WORK

Agricultural Exhibits Not as Complete as Usual Owing to Early Date of Fair—The Winners

The exhibits in Floral Hall this year, though not as numerous as usual, were first class in quality. The fancy work display had the most entries and the agricultural display the least. The shortage of exhibits in the latter is explained by the early date of the fair this year. The rows of fall fruits which are generally in evidence are lacking this year since they have not ripened as yet.

Included in this were forty-four thousand pounds of beans, owned by a man now in California. The beans were seized in the Broker's office warehouse building on Union avenue.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR IS NEARING CLOSE

168TH BAND A FITTING CLIMAX TO WEEK OF ENTERTAINMENT

CHILDREN FREE TODAY

Expect Another Large Crowd This Afternoon and Tonight—Aviators Fly—Will Stage Races

With the concert by the famous 168th, band tonight as the climax to a week of unusual and entertaining feature attractions, Nodaway County's 1919 Fair comes to a close today.

Today was childrens day at the fair and every child of school age in the city was the guest of the fair management. Contrary to the plans, the children did not march in a body to the fair grounds. They secured their tickets at the office of County Superintendent of Schools Bert Cooper and upon presentation at the gate were admitted to the grounds. Prof. Cooper estimated that in the neighborhood of 400 children had applied for the tickets up until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The rain yesterday afternoon and last night made the day an excellent one for the fair goers, and although the crowd was not expected to reach the high mark of last Thursday it is expected to come well near that mark.

Thorughout this morning, Lieut. J. V. Hyde continued to make his passenger carrying flights, many availing themselves of the opportunity to get the bird man thrill. Lieut Burke, who finished his regular program yesterday, will remain in Maryville until Sunday morning This morning he gave an exhibition of fancy air stunts and acrobatic flying.

The track was being worked into condition early this afternoon, and a announcement was made that the regular program of races would be carried out.

FARMERS PRESENT PROGRAM TO REDUCE THE H. C. OF L.

Will Abandon Price Fixing on Food and Clothing, Food Administration, War Trade Board and Internal Revenue Tax

Washington, Aug. 16—Farmers today laid before congress a program to reduce the high cost of living. The program was outlined by the national grange and presented to the joint senate and house commitee of agriculture. It is designed to counteract the influence of the present agitation and thereby increase food production. It recommends the abandonment of price fixing on food and clothing at the end of the present season. Restrictions and regulations based on war powers of congress including the food administration be terminated immediately, termination of the powers of the war trade board and removal of internal revenue taxes on food.

WILSON TO HURRY ACTION ON TREATY

WILL ASK COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO SENATE AT ONCE

WILL EXPLAIN THE PACT

To Go Over the Clouded Parts of the Treaty Explaining Conditions Under Which It Was Drafted

Washington, Aug. 16.—When President Wilson confers with the senate foreign relations committee Tuesday he will ask them, it was learned today, to report the treaty of Versailles to the senate proper without delay. He will ask that the treaty be brought to a vote in order that not only the United States but the nations of the world can get back to work. It is President Wilson to explain the clouded portions of the treaty about as follows:

First, the treaty as a whole embodies the viewpoint of all delegates.

Second, provisions were arrived at only after there had been full and free discussion of all interests involved and throughout the interests of the United States were safeguarded.

Third, that the reasons why the treaty was framed by a council of three and five was that the deliberations of the entire conference was productive only of freedom of debating socially.

WILL CLOSE ALL FLYING FIELDS EXCEPT ON BORDER

To Concentrate Flyers and Machines at Latter Camps—Army Appropriations Insufficient

Washington, Aug. 16.—All air fields of the United States with the exception of those along the Mexican border, will be temporarily closed. Army flyers and machines will be concentrated at those kept open. Representative Curry of California let this be known following a conference with General Mitchell of the army air service. The reason, it is said, was the army appropriation bill failed to provide funds and men to keep all fields open during the present year. Those continued on the Mexican border must be maintained because of the uncertainty in the Mexican affairs, which might necessitate a complete blockade which could best be maintained by airplanes.

Mr. Tracy is quite feeble and this is the first time he has been over in town for several months.

A volunteer squash vine growing in the S. G. King garden is doing better work than most squash vines that are carefully planted and tended. On this vine there are forty fully matured squashes and four more that will mature in a short time. The vine is still blooming and sufficient moisture is all that is needed to mature a later crop.

Hopkins Journal.

Roy Novinger went to Blanchard, Iowa, Tuesday, with the Fordson tractor and returned Wednesday with the big oiler that is to be used in applying oil to Hopkins streets. A Mr. Reeder will operate the machine, being an experienced man, having oiled the streets at Blanchard, Coin and other places. Plans are to start oiling the business streets Thursday morning and traffic will have to keep off for several days after the oil is applied.

A car of cord wood and a car of native lumber were sold to a St. Joseph firm this week by Fike & Gray, cut and sawed from some of the timber in the old City Park. They got $6 a cord for the wood and $32.50 per thousand feet for the lumber.

And still they return from war—John Broyles and Gene Florea arriving home this week from overseas. Doc Hook and Melie Smallwood reached here last week. Dr. H. S. Maxwell is also "over" and will soon be in Hopkins, at present visiting with home folks near College Springs, Ia.

We understand that the Jake Robbins family wil soon occupy the property vacated by Ed Bratcher and that the new superintendent of our school, Prof. George Somerville, and his family wil arrive from Jamesport during this week and will move into the Herb Damewood property.

Bruce Cobb arrived here last Monday from De Ridder, La., to look after his farm, east of town. He likes the south fine and reports Russell Thompson and Jim Conant as being well pleased. Crops are good and considering the price, he thinks land a good buy in Louisiana. Bruce looks well, so the climate must agree with him.

"Pud" Hurst ran into a drove of hogs belonging to W. C. Morehouse Monday night, killing two of the porkers. The Morehouse boys were driving the hogs to Hopkins to be shipped the next day, starting from home with them about 10 o'clock in the evening. Some of the horses on the farm had gotten out and they yelled at "Pud", when they saw him approaching, to see if a certain pasture gate was open. This attracted his attention, and he did not know the hogs were coming towards him until he was in their midst and the damage had been done. The hogs killed weighed over 200 pounds and "Pud" offered to pay for them, but Mr. Morehouse very generously refused pay, saying that he did not consider the young man to blame in the matter.

Burlington Junction Post.

R. Dollison was exhibiting two short limbs from an apple tree Saturday that would take the prize for abundance of fruit. The limbs were not over fourteen feet long and there were 42 apples on them. To use an old expression, they were "just as thick as they could stick" on the limbs and Mr. Dollison said the whole tree was loaded with the fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sewell and little son made a record drive from Burlington Junction to Denver last week in the Sewell Cadillac car. They left here at 10:30 Tuesday morning and arrived in Denver Thursday afternoon, making the drive in just a little over two days' time.

While Clarence Ballinger was unloading a 22-calibre rifle Sunday the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet entered Mrs. Ballenger's foot near the heel and passed through it and into the floor. Mr. and Mrs. Ballenger were visiting at the home of Mrs. Ballenger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Webb, at the time, and they came to the office of Dr. C. E. Cossins, who gave the injury medical attention.

The directors of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co. have employed J. E. Moore of Quitman to take charge of the telephone exchange at this place. Mr. Moore is an experienced man and will doubtless have everything working smoothly here soon. He has been located at Quitman for the past year, and before going there he was in telephone work at Maryville. Mr. Moore will move here Monday. He will have charge of the line and all repair work and also of the board at night, being assisted in the operating by Mrs. Moore.

There are few people who realize just how important Burlington Junction has become as a stock center. They don't realize it, just because they haven't stopped to think about it. Nevertheless there is a large amount of shipping done from this place, as figures obtained at the railroad station show. From the year July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1919, there was a total of 243 cars of livestock shipped from here. Of this number, 67 cars were cattle, 38 were mixed cattle and hogs, 8 were sheep, 129 were hogs and the remaining car was loaded with mules. Practically every car of this stock went to St. Joseph, although there were a few small shipments to Omaha. The shipments were made by a large number of people, from the individual owner with one car load to the buyers who handle a great many cars annually.

An Ordinary Washing

with an Electric Washer costs five or ten cents for electricity. The motor is geared low and requires very little power either for washer or wringer.

It runs steadily, and fifteen minutes of that kind of washing is equal to a whole lot of boiling and rubbing.

Water stays boiling hot in the electric washer becuse the work is done quickly and the top is tightly closed, and while clothes may be boiled before putting them in the washer, it is not necessary.

The Electric solves wash-day problems.

Stop and Think

For one moment why you stay in the East, and pay big interest or high rent when you can go west and soon own a farm of your own.

The West offers greater opportunities to any man than the East and especially to the poor man or man of reasonable means. I started in this land business last fall and have made a success of it by doing an honest business and by selling on reasonable commissions. My business has grown until I have had to have a partner, so Mr. Newt Morgan of Parnell, Mo., is going in with me. I have sold three thousand six hundred acres of land; have just closed a deal on one thousand and fifty acres at forty-five thousand dollars.

This has been the dryest year ever known to the oldest settlers and yet it is wonderful to see what crops we have raised. Most of the corn will make 20 to 30 bushels to the acre. We have had plenty of rain since the third of July and all late crops will be good. I am located at Carpenter, Wyo., in the southeastern corner of the State and have lots of land listed with me for sale now. I have farms of all sizes from one hundred acre farms to five thousand acre ranches and I know I can save any man money that wants to buy a farm or ranch. So don't fail to see me before buying. I have sold eleven thousand six hundred dollars worth of hogs since last October. I fattened them from the corn that I raised last year on one hundred and thirty-five acres. My last car load of sixty-two head brought four thousand and two dollars. I now have nine hundred and sixty acres of land. When I left Maryville, Mo., three years ago last October I was not worth five hundred dollars, today I am worth at least twelve thousand dollars. Now judge for yourself whether this is a good country to make money in or not. Then come and have a talk with me at the Nodaway County Fair and see samples of what we have raised this year, then make up your mind to come back with me and buy a farm or ranch and you will make the best move that you ever made in your life. For further information se me at the Fair August 11 to 16.

MISSOURI STATE LETTER.

Jefferson City, Aug. 16.—So confident are the state politicians about Jefferson City that Judge C. B. Faris of the supreme court will be named United States judge of the St. Louis district to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Judge Davis P. Dyer, that they are now speculating on the man to be appointed by Governor Gardner to succeed him on the state supreme bench.

For several days intimations have been coming by "grape vine" from Washington that Judge Faris will be appointed.

This has been strengthened by a letter received by one of the supreme court judges here from a source in Washington very close to the powers that Faris wil be named within the next ten days.

The writer of this letter declared that Judge Albert D. Nortoni has been eliminated from consideration from for the appointment through the fact that his confirmation is out of the question.

It is said in the letter that President Wilson has made up his mind that it would be useless to send the name of Nortoni to the senate and has decided to appoint Faris.

His name will be sent to the senate immediately after confirmation of A. Mitchell Palmer as attorney general, the letter intimates.

Members of the supreme court here are intensely interested in the appointment of a successor to Judge Faris on the supreme court bench.

This application will be in the hands of Governor Gardner and the appointee will serve until the election of a man to serve out the remaining two years of the term for which Faris was elected in November.

The judges agree that a strong lawyer must be named in order to have a show for election next year. The vacancy caused by Judge Faris' promotion to the federal bench will make two judges of the supreme court to elect next November. Should the Republicans elect a man against Judge Fred L. Williams for the full term and a man to the Faris vacancy it will give them a majority in division No. 2 court.

Speculation as to who will be appointed by Governor Gardner includes the names of Judge Noah W. Simpson, member of the public service commission, R. Perry Spencer, chief counsel for that body, Former Senator Wilfley and others.

St. Louis, Aug. 16.—A permanent organization for Missourians who were officers in the war with Germany is being formed here. The organization, which is the outgrowth of the Missouri Ofifcers' Association, was designed to assist the families of officers while they were inservice and probably will become a part of the National Association of Officers of the World War.

SKIDMORE GIRL WRITES OF AFTER WAR CONDITIONS

Miss Celia Hutt, Y. W. C. A. Canteen Worker in Paris, Describes Trip To Verdun Sector.

The following letter from Miss Celia Hutt of Skidmore, who has been engaged in canteen work with the Y. W. C. A. in Paris, describes the conditions along the trenches since the signing of the armistice. The letter is taken from the Skidmore News.

Paris, France, July 24th, 1919.

Dear Mamma:—

I came up today after lunch to write you a little, knowing the mail goes tomorrow.

We are very busy sending the Red Cross workers home as fast as they can be released. They sail from different parts, a few from Brest, Le Havre, Marseiles and Genoa. The offices of the headquarters here will move the first of the month, but continue to address me here and I will get it. I don't know when I will leave Paris, perhaps by September first.

Many of the girls who came with me have gone, but I feel that there is so much to see and do that I should stay as long as I can.

My room mate, Miss Morris, expects to sail on the Le France on the 2nd of August. The "Y" is sending home everyone they can spare—I shall miss her for she is so good to go on trips with. Last Saturday noon she and I and Geraldine Doheny went to Camp Romague—really if I could go into detail and tell you the whole story it would be much like a tale written to amuse. In the first place, Miss Morris is "Y" and Geraldine and I are R. C. The Verdun sector is a forbidden area and only in rare instances is any one permitted to enter that zone. I had a grave to look up at Romagna, which is one of the largest American cemeteries here. Geraldine was going as courier and to explain this to you must understand the wretched uncertainness of the French mail and telegraph systems. Much communication is done by courier. My room mate (Mary is her name) was told Friday that under no condition could she go, but we told her to go to the Head of the Leave Section. She was hopeless, but persevering, and left the hotel Saturday a. m. with her comb and toothbrush done up in a paper. The train was due to leave at 11:50 Saturday a. m. and I rushed to the station and in some manner explained to the guard that my friend had my ticket (which was not the case) and got on to the platform. There was no friend and no train there, but presently Geraldine came through with her third class military ticket and a cake of chocolate. I had brought some peaches and pastry and the peaches were getting soft and leaking through the paper and I was frantic with thinking the girls would surely miss the train. We waited until after twelve and in the meantime asked every French official we saw if there was not another train. They all assured us that we were alright and that the train was late in being made up. It finally backed in and in the same moment Mary appeared with her permission and a round trip ticket which they had provided her with. We were not crowded going up, in fact, had a compartment alone and the train was an express which reached Chalons at 3:45. We had to change here, but had only 40 minutes so we went up to see the cathedral and stopped, on the return, to get a piece of sausage, cured with garlic, no bread. My room mate had had no breakfast and none of the three of us had any lunch except what we had bought. We tried at every station to get bread but were unable to find any and the train was a very slow omnibus train, which stopped at every cross roads. There were four French officers in our carriage and they were quite entertaining. At one station, after they had all gone except one, a French refugee family of two men, a woman and three babies, got into the carriage—imagine ten in where there were seats for eight. This officer mentioned bread to Geraldine in a joke, and immediately this French woman unwrapped a loaf which she was carrying in a newspaper and offered it to Geraldine. You must picture this loaf as at least two feet long and round and narrow. She had to accept a piece and I must eat a bite and save this woman's feelings, but you can't conceive of anyone dirtier than the refugees, and we were almost sick at the mere thought of having eaten it. They all got off shortly, and G—— got off again to see if she could find food, and failing, got back on, when a poilu came up and asked if she had gotten any, and gave her a half loaf of "Pam Militaire", which is the military bread baked in round loaves the size of a frying pan, but is really baked in baskets.

We reached Verdun at 9:50 and it was drizzling rain. There is no Red Cross there, no railway transportation office, no "Y", no motor transport, in fact, nothing American, but we were directed by a French soldier to some American boys who were near the station and they told us of a hotel and took us to it. We were unable to get a room there, but they sold us some bread and cheese and we were directed to another place, where we were taken in. This one had had 22 rooms, but was so demolished that they had only been able to make eight habitable. In fact, only in the past month have any of the hotels in Verdun been opened. We were given a tiny room with a ¾ bed and a candle to go to bed by. We three slept in that bed under a French featherbed and never wakened until we were called at 6:10 for breakfast, consisting of a cup of chocolate and bread and butter. Our train left at 7 for Dun-sur-Meuse, which is a small village where a transportation camp is located. We got there about 8 a. m., and the boys gave us some coffee, bread, butter and jam. We waited about an hour and were taken in a Red Cross ambulance to Camp Romange, about half an hour's ride. The distance from Verdun to Dun is short, but we went so slowly and stopped so often that by the time we reached Dun I had all the daisies, poppies and corn flowers I could carry. You see, on an omnibus train you get out of your own carriage on either side.

We got to Romange and asked for Major Bickford, a man whom I mentioned, from Seattle, and he drove up in a Cadillac ready to take some of the girls to Verdun, so we all climbed in, too. It was perhaps ten o'clock. We drove all over the front, which had been fought over for four years, and which is sown with all kinds of ammunition, explosives, barbed wire, wrecks of airplanes, ambulances, tanks and all sorts of firearms, gas masks, etc., the trees, grove after grove, dead from gas and shell fire, every bank a small underground village of dugouts, every foot of the sod plowed up with shell fire, but the grass and flowers hiding it all as best it can—every big hill a stronghold and on all sides trenches and pontoon bridges across marshes—here and there a listening post or sniper's nest, and every village just a heap of stones. Miles of the road camouflaged, and I remember one very large bridge which had been blown up, the piers camouflaged and a new bridge built a few hundred yards away to deceive the enemy—the whole approach to the old one was used for concrete dugouts.

We drove through Forges, Bras and many other villages, which were completely destroyed. I've a picture of the highest wall standing in Forges which I will bring, but I am so afraid to entrust the pictures to letters. The road was rough and full of shell holes, so by the time we reached Verdun we were nearly famished for food and very tired, but we couldn't miss the opportunity of visiting the underground city of Verdun. It is built under a hill upon which is a citadel surrounded by a wall and a moat. I've no idea how many thousands could live in this great stronghold, but we saw their bakery and ovens where 125 loaves were baked at once, saw their hospital and reading rooms, all electric lighted and steam heated. Then we visited the Catholic school and church, which is pretty badly shot up. Our train left at 6:25, so we had an early dinner at a hotel called "Coq Hardi", meaning the brave cock. We reached Chalons at 9:45 and went to the French Red Cross. There were two lovely French women in charge, who took us into their private office and served us a dinner. There were two reclining chairs and a couch in this room, so we turned out the light and went to sleep. A French soldier called us at 2:10 for our train, and we left at 2:40, reaching Paris at 6 a. m.—went to our hotel, had a bath, slept until 8 and got to work at 9, as usual.

Don't think this trip a particularly strenuous nor so different in any sense from many I've taken, but I've simply had time and inclination to write at length upon this one. They are all full of such funny incidents, unique experiences and interesting sights that I could write volumes.

Love,

CELIA.

THE ROAD BOOM IN STATE IS GROWING

MISSOURI IS IN GREATEST ERA OF HIGHWAY BUILDING

824 MILES UNDER SURVEY

Approximately 40 Million Dollars in Bonds Voted or Proposed by Different Counties in the State

Jefferson City, Aug. 16.—The statewide movement to construct durable roads with state and federal aid under the new law, which has been in force less than four months, already is yielding results beyond the expectations of the sponsors of the measures. With approximately 40 million dollars in bonds voted or proposed the apex of the movement will not be reached until later in the year.

The state highway board, at its last meeting, aproved eleven road projects calling for an estimated expenditure of $938,550 on the fifty-eight miles of road. At a previous meeting it approved projects in six counties that will cost about one million dollars. Now that the federal bureau of public roads has assigned a resident engineer to Missouri to expedite the road building movement, these projects will be speedily passed upon by the federal government and the contracts for the building will be let shortly. The end of the year will find Missouri building more durable roads than ever before in her history.

Among the projects approved at the last meeting were:

Nine miles of gravel road in Dunklin county in two directions from Malden at an estimated cost of $62,000; one and two-thirds miles of bituminous macadem from St. Charles to Harvester in St. Charles county, $22,700; nine and one-fifth miles of bituminous macadam on the National Trails Road across the Malta Bend Special Road District in Saline county, $168,000; three and one-half miles of gravel on the Potosi-Caledonia road in Washington county, $12,000; seven and four-fifths miles of bituminous macadam from Boonville to the Lamine river in Cooper county, $130,000; five and three-tenths miles of bituminous macadam from Sedalia to Smithton on the Southern Highway, $50,700; thirteen miles of bituminous macadam from Excelsior Springs to Liberty, $324,600; five and one-half miles of bituminous macadam from Boonville eastward, $88,600; three miles of bituminous macadam from Lone Jack to the Johnson county line, $56,600.

The board appropriated the state's share of $1,200 a mile for the construction of three miles of bituminous macadam road on the National Old Trail in Boone county from Columbia and the state's share on fifteen miles of concrete road from Charleston to Bird's Point in Mississippi county.

According to A. W. Graham, state highway engineer, there are fifty-seven projects in the state, representing 824 miles of road on which surveys are being made. He stated that there are aobut sixty projects which will be under survey within a short time. On nine projects, representing 102 miles, the surveys have been completed. Six federal aid projects under the new law are now under construction, and fifty-seven state aid projects, started under the old law, are still under way.

The estimated average cost per mile of road now under construction, according to Mr. Graham, is about $7,000 and represents hard surfaced construction of seevral types. If this average cost is maintained, the 824 miles now being surveyed will demand an expenditure of $5,700,000. Adding to that the cost of 102 miles already surveyed, a total of 6½ million dollars for road building is already within sight for the coming year.

Many counties have recently voted bonds or are preparing to vote within a short time, which will greatly swell this total before the end of the present year.

The total amount of bonds rejected recently is $2,735,000, in Green, Macon and Webster counties. Green county is resubmitting her two million dollar bond issue at an election September 15.

Since the new law went into effect bond issues have carried in the state to the total of $11,975,000 and elections to date have been called for issues amounting in the aggregate to $9,297,000 more.

Twenty-four counties and many special road districts are circulating petitions for bond issues totaling $18,058,000. The total of bond issues carried and bonds proposed is approximately 40 million dollars.

This road building movement is distributed about equally among the six districts in which the state has been divided by the state highway board. A division engineer has been placed in each district to supervise surveys, road construction, map out roads and otherwise act as the agent of the highway department in promoting road building in the state. A survey party of ten men is at work in each division surveying the six thousand miles of road the new law authorized within the next three years.

NO NEW FACTS IN G. O. P. INQUEST

SELECT COMMITTEE FAILS TO REVEAL ANY NEW INFORMATION

STILL ON AIR PROBE

Investigation Only Brings to Light America's Efficiency and Import in World War

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Republican house's select committee of fifteen, inquiring into how America won the war, has now been at work more than a month and has failed to convince the American public that Germany did not surrender.

One phase of the conduct of the war—aviation—is now being inquired into for the fourteenth time, according to the statement of a witness appearing before one of the sub-committees, and thus far the inquiry has failed to bring to public attention anything that wasn't already a matter of general information.

However, the inquiry has served to remind the public of the following facts, among others:

That if it had not been for the supplies, material and assistance furnished by America, the Allies would have had little or no air service during the last several months of the war and Germany would have had complete mastery of the air.

That the development of the Liberty motor solved the airplane engine problem for all the associated countries at war. The Liberty was the only motor to attain quantity production and saved a very serious situation at a very critical period of the war.

That at the signing of the armistice there was a larger number of American air pilots in the military service than in the service of any of the Allies.

That although military aviation was a wholly new science in America, at the signing of the armistice the United States had produced nearly twelve thousand airplanes and more than thirty thousand motors. In addition, 5,071 planes, practically all of them fighting or pursuit and bombing planes, and 6,754 engines were purchased from the Allies, in return for which raw material was furnished the Allies, which alone made it possible for them to equip their own armies with airplanes.

That the air service wing of the army was built up from practically nothing at the beginning of the war until, at the signing of the armistice, its personnel numbered more than 100,000 officers and men.

That quantity production of both airplanes and engines had reached such development at the armistice that it would have been possible to equip the eighty fighting divisions General Pershing planned to have at the front by July, 1919, with the 358 air squadrons of twenty planes each regarded as needed to maintain absolute supremacy in the air.

That, in the opinion of high officers in the army, aviation as well as commanders of battle divisions, America's achievements in the aviation during the war, when the obstacles that had to be overcome are considered, weer nothing short of marvelous.

The aviation sub-committee, of which Representative Frear of Wisconsin, Republican, is chairman, has adjourned its Washington hearings and has gone to the Pacific northwest where hearings will be held to inquire into spruce production.

On the eve of the sub-committee's departure a statement attirbuted to Representative Frear was issued from the publicity office of the Republican National Committee attempting to justify the expedition to the northwest, which involved the travel of several persons several thousand miles, with consequent heavy cost to the taxpayers.

During the Washington sittings Representative Frear summoned Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the Democratic National Committee before the committee to take him to task because the Democratic publicity bureau had referred to his committee as a "smelling" committee and had characterized its trip to the northwest as a "junket." Mr. Cummings very frankly told the committee that he regarded the trip as unnecessary and a needless waste of time and money; in fact, that the whole program, based on the partisan plan of conducting investigations, was wrong, although as chairman of the Democratic National Committee he welcomed this and all other investigations the Republicans might make into the conduct of the war.

In the statement issued by the Republican National Committee, atempting to justify the journey to the Pacific coast, Mr. Frear was quoted as using such intemperate language as "dishonesty, "treason" and "graft," in referring to charges he said had been made to the committee against Democrats. Although copies of the purported interview with Mr. Frear were mailed out from the Washington publicity office of the Republican National Committee, Mr. Frear caused it to be withdrawn and issued a second statement, in far milder language, attempting chiefly to reply to Chairman Cummings' statement that the trip was an unnecessary expenditure of time and public money, and at a time when members of congress should be in Washington devoting their attention to the high cost of living and other necessary legislation.

Discussing the work of the aviation sub-committee prior to leaving for the northwest, Representative Lea of California, Democratic member, said that he felt that it would be inappropriate for him to express an opinion at this time as to the merit of charges presented to the committee. Nevertheless, in reply to a question about the old charge that a large part of the $604,000,000 set aside by congress in its first large appropriation for aviation had been wasted, Mr. Lea said that examination of undisputed facts show this charge to be a gross exaggeration.

"Out of these funds," said Mr. Lea, "it has been shown that the air service established something like thirty aviation fields, with the necessary construction work; that 30,630 airplanes engines and 11,760 airplanes were produced in the United States prior to the signing of the armistice, and that we purchased 5,071 planes and 6,754 engines from the Allies. Including the planes and engines procured from the Allies, the United States paid for 16,831 planes and 37,319 engines; also $63,345,941.77 additional was spent on overseas air service prior to June 30, 1919.

"A total of 15,572 Liberty motors was produced in the United States during the war, and during the same period we produced 16,848 engines of other makes.

"During the month of October, preceding the armistice, we produced 3,870 Liberty engines, while 5,297 engines of all types were produced during that month. This is the greatest record in engine producteion ever made by any country.

"These facts are simply high spots brought to the attention of the committee thus far during the investigation."

YANKEE ROBINSON SHOW MORE COMPLETE THAN EVER BEFORE

The big Yankee Robinson three-ring Wild Animal Circus, due in Maryville Saturday, Aug. 30, will be more complete this season in range of standard features, aided by world-picked skillful artists, having a greater number of men and horses and additional animals of zoo and jungle than ever before. They also have enlarged transportation facilities, the largest of canvases, with an expanded seating capacity that will seat 10,000 people comfortably.

The 1919 season has a special interest, as the circus is reinforced by the presence of Young Hackenschmidt, the world's champion middleweight wrestler, who will meet all comers daily, forfeiting one hundred dollars to any man he cannot win a fall from in fifteen minutes. He is just one of the participants in the athletic portion of the Yankee Robinson program.

To give the public an idea as to the character of the entertainment presented by this vast amusement enterprise, the Yankee Robinson Circus and Eddie Rickenbacker, American Ace of Aces, were chosen out of a thousand attractions offered as the leading features of the Nebraska State Fair, to be held in Lincoln next September.

The novelty-filled, mile-long parade will take place at noon. Doors open at 2 and 8 p. m.

FOR RENT—House at 1009 East Second street. Is a first class modern house, newly decorated and painted, up to date in everything, toilet, basement, furnace and every convenience in the best of houses. I will reserve two of the smallest rooms for my own occupancy. Adam Kern. 16-19
